The Normal Schools.

As the time draws near for the opening of the normal schools in Vermont, it is growing more and more certain that those who desire to become teachers, as well as those who are now teaching in the state, are preparing to take advantage in greater numbers than ever of the opportunities offered by the Vermont normal schools for the training of teachers.

Educational conditions in the state seem to be changing rapidly. The opportunities for teachers as far as wages are concerned, are surely growing better. School boards and superintendents in very large numbers are taking advantage of the law, passed by the last legislature, which says that every town employing a graduate of a normal school, if it pays at least seven dollars a week and board the first year after graduation, shall receive a rebate from the state of one dollar a week for each teacher so employed. This surely means better wages for the teachers.

The Castleton normal school graduated 48 teachers in June and of this number practically all are to receive at least ten dollars a week. The prospects for the coming year are especially good at that school. The entering class already numbers thirty. Of this number, nearly half are teachers and a very large proportion are high school graduates.

More than ever teachers seem to realize the need of a normal school training and to appreciate the fact that the best positions are open to those who have studied at a normal school, whose whole object is to show others how to teach.

Never before have so many high school graduates entered the Castleton normal school, as there will enter this fall. The number entering in September will almost equal as far as high school graduates are concerned, all those in the entire history of the school who have been high school graduates when they entered the school.

A teacher without professional training, who has never attended a normal school, is very likely to find herself in a small school with little opportunity and low wages. Not only will she find herself there, but it will not be easy for her to place herself in an appreciably better position.

It is a recognition of this fact, which is causing so many teachers to enter the normal school and compelling so many high school graduates to do the same, before they take up teaching.

It would seem that the graduates of Vermont normal schools are to have their choice of the best positions in Vermont.

Those desiring information regarding the Castleton normal school can obtain a catalogue of the school by addressing Principal Charles A. Adams of Castleton.

These phases, has been delivered more than 2000 times and brings the highest fee of any lecture where the lecture is paid for and not the man. The term "lectures" sometimes frightens people into visions of some dry didactic discussion of a technical nature. Dr. Ott's address is just the antithesis of that, for he handles the subject in a thoroughly popular and interesting way, and applies his reasoning to present day conditions. It is thrilling, convincing, uplifting.

Nominal support will hardly sustain a course such as this. Those who really care for these things must take the season tickets promptly when they are placed on sale. The cost is merely nominal. Almost any one of last year's course was worth the price of a season ticket, and therefore, if one or two are missed the ticket holder receives full value. When the tickets are placed on sale, those who desire good seats for the Barton course will have to come early, as the demand for best seats is sure to be large.

LEAVES CASE TO PEOPLE

Surprised to Learn Governor Had Any Other Reasons for His Removal. His Reply to Fletcher in Full.

Charles D. Watson, who was removed by Governor Fletcher from the public service commission on Monday of last week, as told in these columns, made the following statement in answer to that of Governor Fletcher, an extract of which appeared in this paper.

"I read the statement of Governor Fletcher this morning with more than ordinary interest for it was the first information I had received in any way regarding the causes of my removal other than the statement made to the members of the commission that they were no longer fit to serve because of the stand they had taken in the telephone matter. That stand amounted to a refusal to pass judgment in a case before the evidence was heard as I stated Monday.

"I must confess that I am surprised to learn that the Governor had any other reasons. As to the Bennington matter referred to by His Excellency, I may properly say that the Governor told the commission that he had been requested to go to Bennington to investigate. He was informed that the commission had passed judgment and would stand by that judgment. Governor Fletcher at first criticized the commission but when the situation was explained, he said no more and did not intimate in any way that our action was unsatisfactory, which makes all the more surprising his present statement that our action would have justified a reorganization of the commission at that time.

"His Excellency makes reference to procrastination in putting into effect a railroad demurrage law. This is the first intimation of complaint by the Governor in this regard. If there was any procrastination here it was due as much to the complainant's refusal to conform to the procedure in such matters as laid down by the law, as to any delay of the commission.

As to whether the commission was asked to pre-judge the telephone case I ask the people to read the letter from the Governor which accompanied the report of Messrs. Cook and Graham and which virtually informed us that we were to issue an order in conformity with the specific recommendations of the special counsel. The public may judge whether the special counsel obtained sufficient evidence or obtained it in a way proper on which to base such an order as was desired. I, with the other members of the commission, was willing to issue such an order as would give the telephone companies an opportunity to be heard and present their case.

That I had no intimation or suspicion that relations between the Governor and myself were not friendly, I may say that besides a lack of suggestion from him, I had been received socially at his home and had eaten at his table and slept under his roof. Up to the time of the telephone report, then, in my opinion the most cordial relations existed between Mr. Fletcher and myself. A change was noticeable, however, after the commission had determined that it must withdraw its promise to sign the order the Governor wanted. When we told His Excellency of our position the change was at once evident. As I have stated before, he then informed us that we were no longer fit to sit in judgment on the matter. This was at his house in Burlington. There was a great contrast between his treatment of me on the occasion of my former visit to his house and then. "I will say in conclusion that Governor Fletcher knew me by personal contact when we were in the house of representatives together in 1908 and also during the recent session when he was chief executive and I was again on the floor of the house. He appointed me without my solicitation or without representations on the part of my friends as far as I knew. He must have known the man he was appointing, and there has been no change in the man since. I am willing to let this matter rest with the people. I simply stood for the right as I saw it. I have nothing to conceal from the people or the records are there. I simply refused to sit in judgment on a case when the defendant had not been given the opportunity to be heard."

Dr. J. M. Blake has returned from Boston where he has been spending several weeks.

WANTED.

Twenty thousand people to come out to the band concert at Barton Saturday evening, Aug. 9, given by Barton Cornet band, assisted by F. P. Knapp, cornet, and Carroll Webster, bass. Mr. Knapp, who is located for the summer at Lyndonville, has played with all the best bands in Boston and vicinity. He is master of the cornet as soloist and also as teacher and is a fine band conductor. Mr. Webster is too well known in this vicinity to require any introduction, as wherever he has sung, you hear the remark, "What a splendid singer!" The concert will be in the park and the program is as follows: March, "Glorification," Geo. Rosenkrans; overture, "Sweet Brier," Laurendeau; cornet solo, "My Darling Nellie Gray," (air varie) Mr. Knapp; Teles; Porto Rican Dance, "Rosita," Jean Missud; vocal solo, "Love's Old Sweet Song," Mr. Webster, (band accompaniment) J. L. Malloy; vocal solo, "Sobrelas Odas," arr. by Paul De Ville; march, "The Ensign," Geo. Rosenkrans; medley overture, arr. by H. C. Miller.

Ready for Business.

The Independent Telephone Association of Glover has filed incorporation papers at the office of the secretary of state, Montpelier. The concern will do a general telephone business in Orleans county. The capital stock is $5,000. Dr. N. L. Dow and Fred Corliss of Glover and R. A. Ritchie of Greensboro are officers.

Examinations.

Teachers' examinations and examinations for free tuition to high school will be held at Barton academy August 14th and 15th.

31-33 C. L. Erwin, Supt.

Congregational Church Notes

The union meeting of Christian Endeavor and Epworth League Sunday evening was well attended and much enjoyed.

The fidelity class enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Fairbanks of West Burke Tuesday at its regular monthly meeting. The number present was limited, but not so the pleasure. Field sports, a picnic dinner, walks, rides, were features of the day and the literary part of the program was made especially interesting by accounts of Southern life given by Mr. Fairbanks and Miss Grace Rogers, a teacher from Atlanta, Ga.

Methodist Episcopal Church Notes.

Rev. R. B. Wright will not occupy the pulpit on Sunday as expected, as unforeseen circumstances impel an earlier start for his home in Idaho.

Examinations.

While a scythe was passed to Delbert Smith last week, it fell, cutting a long gash and severing a cord in his lower arm.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Aldrich and Thomas Allchurch of Somerville, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Hunter.

Miss Marion Bickford of Boston, arrived Saturday to spend the remainder of the summer with friends here and at Glover.

One hundred seventy-five automobiles were seen to pass the Stiles cottage on Sunday in Foster Grove at Willoughby Lake.

Charles Baldwin of Montpelier, George Baldwin and M. H. Smart of Philadelphia are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Baldwin.

NEXT WINTER'S COURSE

Arrangements Completed for a Great Series of Events. Dr. Driver Coming Back and Dr. Ott also to Lecture.

The success of course of lectures and entertainments given in Barton the past season under the auspices of the school, proves beyond question that when talent of the highest class is secured and the matter properly presented to our people, they not only support the course but like it and want it continued on this basis. Being confident on this point, and desirous of securing choice of talent and advantageous datings, the committee has arranged a great series for next winter.

About November first the course will open with a concert by the Maurer Sisters Concert company. This quartette of dainty entertainers come from South Bend, Indiana and have been a sensational success for four years in the best courses of the west. They are instrumentalists of great ability, and offer solos for violin, flute, cornet and auto, and all of the different combinations such instrumentation makes possible. They are clever singers too, and one of the young ladies adds much to the program with humorous readings and clever impersonations and stories.

In early December there will be a concert by the Music Makers, one of the finest male quartettes on the American platform. In their rendition of classic songs, songs with action and humorous numbers, they are imitable. The first tenor, Mr. Garrett, furnishes excellent solos on the saxophone and Mr. Huff, the baritone, is an impersonator and humorist. The company is composed of cultured young men of unusual talent, who have been a reigning success for five years in the lyceum. One of the strongest instrumental features is their playing upon a large double myrmbaphone, a chromatic instrument whose tone is produced by striking felt hammers on tuned granadilla wood bars, to which are attached aluminum resonators. The effect is much like a great harp and the quartette play standard overtures and selections as well as daintier and more popular novelties.

The committee are especially pleased to announce Mr. Montaville Flowers in his enactment of Charles Dickens's "A Christmas Carol," one of the gems of English literature. No creator or portrayer of character has won such recognition as Dickens, and Mr. Flowers is also able in making each character stand out with all of its individuality that the hearer's interest is held from the first and the vivid heart story seems a present day reality. Mr. Flowers is by many, accorded the highest place among American interpreters and it is certain that this event will linger long with every hearer. Mr. Flowers has been, for two years past, president of the International Lyceum Association, composed of all the principal lyceum artists, about eight hundred in number, most of the managers, representatives and many committee men who are working for the extension of the movement. This event coming about holiday time makes it most timely.

Dr. John Merritt Driver, who made such a profound impression here by his scholarship and ability as a lecturer will give us his second great lecture in January. No one who heard the doctor when he spoke here will miss this second appearance.

The closing number about March first is a lecture by Dr. Edward Amherst Ott, whose "Sour Grapes," a discussion of heredity and all of its

The office of the Barton Real Estate company has been moved from the bank block to the residence of J. C. King on Harrison Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith of St. Johnsbury are at Crystal Lake Grove for two weeks, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murkland.

Mrs. Emma Skinner of West Glover, and Mrs. Cora Wakeman of Newport are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sisco.

Mrs. Kinney and Mrs. Miles of Hardwick visited at A. R. Cowles's this week and are now with friends at Willoughby Lake.

A family gathering at Harry Heath's on Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Chester Heath of Shelton, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Heath.

Miss Fowler, Mrs. Fred Elkins and Mrs. E. G. Gardyne of North Troy were guests this week of Mrs. W. W. Reiriden and Mrs. C. A. Barrows.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wright, Mrs. Theodore Wright, Geo. King and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crane and Rev. Reuben Wright went Tuesday to Parker Pond for the day.

C. L. Erwin owns duplicate sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica and has loaned one complete set, thirty volumes and the Guide to Systematic Reading, to the library. The townspeople sincerely thank Mr. Erwin.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Pierce and Mrs. Altha Pierce have returned from their trip to York and Hampton beaches, Nahant and Swampscott. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Perry of Swampscott accompanied them to their home.

There will be a lawn party and band concert on St. Paul's church lawn on Thursday evening for the benefit of the church. The public is welcome. If the weather is not favorable the entertainment will be in the hall.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Reiriden were in Newport Tuesday to attend a meeting of the Orleans County Bar association held at the summer home of Atty. George Young at the Bluffs, Lake Memphremagog.

The following letters remain uncalled for at the postoffice. Please say advertised when calling for these letters. Miss Freeda Cheever, Miss E. Devereaux, Miss M. L. Hewitt, Mrs. Chas. W. Sias, L. P. Thompson, Margaret Wilson, Mrs. C. A. Weller, Sour Zachae.

The annual automobile day of the Village Improvement Society will be observed Tuesday, August 12, weather being suitable, otherwise Thursday, August 14 and no further postponement. Appointments may be made by calling Mrs. N. M. Hubbard, N. E. Tel. 13-12 on or before Monday, August 11. For routes, prices and so forth, see bills.

Miss Clara Comstock, formerly of Barton, and who has been in the employ of the United Shirt and Collar Co., of Troy, N. Y., for thirteen years, seven of which as the manager of their manufacturing department at Plattsburg, N. Y., has moved to Troy, N. Y., where she will hold the same position for the same firm. Miss Comstock was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. D. T. Comstock.

Willard Gray received a severe injury to his hip Friday as he was driving to Barton from his home on the Willoughby lake road. His horse is unmanageable at sight of an automobile, so upon seeing an auto truck approaching, Mr. Gray left the wagon, grasping the bridle. The horse reared and struck Mr. Gray, but his hip was not broken as first appeared. No blame is attached to the driver of the car.
